UNITED PARTY ARCHIVES

CENTRAL HEAD OFFICE: 1905-1988

Introduction

In terms of an agreement with the United Party in 1969, the Unisa Library became the official custodian and processor of the Party's political archive. The Archives also include the United Party's predecessors and its successor the New Republic Party and the records of parties which broke away from the UP e.g. the Progressive Party (later the Progressive Federal Party). The Collection continued to grow even after the dissolution of the UP in 1977 and the final meeting of the trustees of the New Republic Party in 1989.

The scope of the archival records (173 boxes)

The Central Head Office files consist of 17, 5 linear metres of records (large format volumes and 173 boxes). The Central Head Office is part of the larger United Party Archives which are available to national as well as international researchers. According to the Party constitution, the Central Head Committee / Office consisted of the Leader of the Party, the Deputy Leader of the Party, Ministers, deputy Ministers and ex –ministers. The Archives are of particular value in that the records are the official documents of a South African political party which ruled for 38 years. The United Party and its successor, the new Republic Party, represented the official opposition from 1948 until 1987. Over the years the Archives have been consulted by biographers, historians, politicians, educators, TV and film directors, lawyers, socialists and others.

The Central Congress elected the Chairman and Party Leader, dealt with agendas and drafted the Party constitution. The Central Committee edited the discussion points at the central congress which Provincial Head Committees had submitted in advance. All decisions taken by the Central Congress were binding on all structures and party members. The Central Head Office budgeted for the financial requirements of the Party, drafted action programmes, policy documents and maintained party discipline. The Central Head Office also collected information files on important issues and events such as Native and Coloured franchise, parliamentary and provincial elections, labour matters, delimitation commissions, defence and republicanism. These files contain reports, pamphlets and press cuttings. Louis Esselen's UP correspondence files give the researcher some insight into the important role which the party secretary played in government during the thirties and forties. Other interesting files are Wallachs Printing and Publishing Company, the Smuts Government's intelligence files (1940-1944), Second World War memoranda on Black, Coloured, Indian and Jewish soldiers, the Broederbond, the relationship with Germany and German companies such as Siemens, Bayer-Pharma and Adlerwerke, the Springbok Legion, Ossewabrandwag, South West Africa / Namibia, SABC, War Veterans Torch Commando, Communism and party leadership issues. The Central Head Office files also include information on the leaders e.g. General Louis Botha, General Jan Smuts, General Hertzog, JGN Strauss, Sir De Villiers Graaff, Vause Raw and RR Cadman.

The South African Party and its successors, the United Party and the New Republic Party were key players in 20th century South African party politics.

The arrangement of the UP Archives

From an archival view point, the arrangement and description of the United Party records was problematic. The Archives were created by a few paid party officials, volunteers and individual members – who at times broke away from the UP and created new parties - agents and representatives over many decades. The United Party never had a unified filing system for records – each province, constituency and branch followed its own system. The state of disorder of party materials, made it obvious that there was never a file plan or any control over the creation of party records. The archivist therefore had to design a new filing system to accommodate past and future donations.

In order to keep track of all donors, a donor index was created. Records were not placed under the names of individual donors as it would have divided the contents e.g. if the agendas of the central congresses were donated by four donors, a researcher working on the agendas of the central congresses (1911-1975) would need to consult four different donor accessions. In the end, the archivist followed the provenance principle and created a basic party structure for the Central Head Office, the Division of Information, Division of Organization, the Cape, Transvaal, Natal, Free State Provinces and Namibia. See the structure below:

- Central Head Office
- Division of Information and Research (administrative files, files on people and subject files)
- Division of Organisation
- Provincial Offices of the Cape, Natal, Free State, Transvaal and Namibia. These offices were sub-divided into regional offices, constituencies, branches, subject files and files on people.
- Photograph and cartoon collection
- Film Collection
- Banner Collection
- Map Collection
- Party periodicals and newspapers
- Speeches on tape
- Posters
- Private papers of individual members

To assist with the identification of records, an index of candidates of all parties who participated in elections and by-elections between 1910 and 1987 in South Africa and Namibia, was created. A perpetual calendar – also known as a forever calendar - was used to find the year in cases where records were only identified by the day, the month and not the year.

Thanks to the archival process of arrangement and description, the rich information resources of the United Party have become accessible and useable for past, present and future researchers.
