Glogster allows users to create free interactive multimedia posters, or Glogs. The user inserts text, images, photos, audio (MP3), videos, special effects and other elements into their glogs to generate a multimedia online creation. Based on Adobe Flash elements. Share via the site, embed in external wikis or blogs, and shared via many social networks such as Facebook and Twitter. Glogs can also be exported and saved to computer-compatible format.
Free reference management tools

What is reference management software?

If you don’t use a reference management tool already, you will want to start as soon as you finish reading this post! These tools will make your life as a student much easier and cure those citation headaches and banish those bibliography blues. Basically, reference management tools are software applications that are designed to help you write your papers with ease and style. They will help you to organize your references, format them in any style you desire (e.g. MLA, APA, Chicago) and automatically generate in-text citations and bibliographies. A guaranteed time-saver!

Lots of (smart) people use RefWorks or Endnote reference management software to organize their citations. As a UNISA student, you can create your own profile and use RefWorks for free. Check it out! Unfortunately RefWorks can be a bit cumbersome to use and Endnote is expensive to buy, but never fear there are many other useful options like Zotero. You may ask “why bother using Zotero?” Well, there are lots of great reasons:

- Zotero is free! You don’t have to pay a cent for it.
- It resides right on your Firefox browser and captures information from the Web.
- The interface is designed with you – the Web surfer – in mind. You can surf the Web and...

Technology and library support within an ODL environment

by Sophie vd Walt on Sep 03, 2013 Edit

The purpose of this paper is to share information on open distance libraries with specific reference of the use of technology in the Unisa Library: Information Resources Distribution (IRD) Services for student support. It seeks to provide practical information and examples of technology used within the Unisa Library: IRD section.

I still need to find four books for my assignment, but I can't go to the library now...

hang on, I can use my phone to search for books in the library, and then go pick it up tomorrow! The site is http://oasis.unisa.ac.za/airpac

Hi Dean, did you get the books you requested over your phone?

Yes, I'm on my way to the library now to pick them up.
