

Foreword

I would like to express my gratitude and appreciation to all persons whose support, encouragement and interest have in some way contributed to the completion of this thesis.

Many thanks to my promoter, Professor Johann Neethling, who has given me invaluable guidance and direction in the writing of the thesis.

Unisa provided financial support during 1997 for an overseas visit that enabled me to meet with other researchers in the field of data protection. This proved to be a source of continuing inspiration. I would like to thank everybody who was kind enough to meet with me on this trip and generously shared their views and private libraries on data protection. My special thanks in particular to David Flaherty and Colin Bennett (in Canada); Paul Schwartz, Marc Rotenberg, David Banisar, Robert Gellman and Deidre Mulligan (in the USA); Gerald Dworkin and Adrian Sterling (in the UK); Hans Franken and Ulco van de Pol (in the Netherlands).

A word of appreciation goes to Sandra Mills for her efficient and friendly assistance in editing the text of the thesis and to Christa Botha for her continuing efforts to help me master the English language! I am also grateful for the friendly and professional support provided by Nico Ferreira and Karen Breckon of Unisa's library.

I wish to express my sincerest gratitude to my colleagues at Unisa and all my friends who encouraged me through the many years I spent on this thesis.

Last, but not least, I wish to thank my family for their love, support and encouragement. Without the continuing help of my parents (Van Vuren and Roos) in looking after my children, it would have been impossible to pursue a career and work on a thesis simultaneously. I would like to thank my husband, Philip, for his patience, understanding, encouragement and support.

I dedicate this thesis to my husband and my children Jaco and Liesl, with all my love.
