

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page number
1 INTRODUCTION
General introduction.....	1
Definition of terms.....	2
Lay trauma counsellor.....	2
Secondary traumatic stress.....	3
Constructivism.....	3
Aim and Rationale of the Study.....	4
Design of the Study.....	6
Sampling and Selection.....	7
Data Collection.....	7
Data Analysis.....	8
Format of the Study.....	8
Conclusion.....	10
2 TRAUMA COUNSELLOR TRAINING
Introduction.....	11
Brief overview: Origin and nature of lay counselling.....	11
Basic lay trauma counselling skills.....	14
Creating an atmosphere conducive to communication.....	15
Calmness.....	19
Cognitive techniques.....	20
Making plans.....	22
Boundaries of lay counselling role.....	23

Group Counselling	24
Multicultural sensitivity	26
Taking care of the trauma counsellor	27
Conclusion	28

3 THE EFFECTS OF TRAUMA COUNSELLING ON LAY TRAUMA COUNSELLORS

Introduction	30
Trauma Counsellors: The Cost of Caring.....	30
Secondary Traumatic Stress Reaction (STS)	31
Reported indicators of psychological distress in trauma counsellors.....	33
Distressing emotions	30
Intrusion.....	33
Avoidance.....	33
Somatic complaints	34
Physiological arousal.....	34
Impairment of day-to-day functioning in social and personal roles.....	34
Cognitive changes in the beliefs, expectations and assumptions that trauma counsellors hold	34
Relational disturbances	35
How does STS occur?	36
Multidimensional model for understanding the onset of secondary traumatic stress	37
The trauma counsellor	38

Personality characteristics.....	38
Empathic ability.....	38
Lack of assertiveness.....	39
Cognitive thoughts that engender burnout	39
Demographic characteristics	40
Trauma counsellor's history	40
Human Services Organisations.....	41
Resources	41
Structure	41
Roles.....	42
Unique features of the job of trauma counselling	42
Nature of the trauma	43
Profile of survivors or care-recipients	43
Individual behaviours	44
Demographic variables of clients	44
Chronicity	44
Acuity	45
Context – macro-environment.....	45
Media	45
South Africa.....	45
Dynamics and implications of the multidimensional approach	46
Generalisations from Research.....	47
Implications.....	47
Learning without experiencing the pain?	49
Positive effects of working with trauma survivors.....	49

Conclusion	50
------------------	----

4 CONSTRUCTIVISM

Introduction	52
Brief overview of objectivist or modernist principles	52
Application of modernist principles to the treatment domain	53
Shift from modernism to postmodernism	54
Schools of constructivist thought.....	57
Radical constructivism and social constructionism.....	58
Co-constructivism.....	60
Language, stories and constructivism.....	60
A constructivist perspective on problems and therapy	63
Constructivism and the present study.....	67
Conclusion	68

5 RESEARCH APPROACH

Introduction	69
Constructivist objection to a quantitative research paradigm.....	69
Qualitative research paradigm.....	71
Justification for choosing a qualitative research approach.....	72
Reliability and validity in qualitative research	73
Reliability with reference to this study	74
Validity with reference to this study	75
Role of the researcher	75
Some thoughts which informed the researcher's thinking	76

Normal and abnormal behaviour	77
Views of counselling	77
Selection of participants	77
Data analysis	80
Closing remarks on the research approach	83

6 SANDY'S STORY

Personal data	85
Introduction	85
The Background	86
Researcher's initial impressions of Sandy	87
How Sandy became involved in counselling and her impressions of the training course	87
Effects of counselling.....	88
View of the world.....	89
Repeated thoughts about clients	90
Lack of concentration	91
Helpfulness (control) vs. helplessness (lack of control)	92
Questioning her counselling effectiveness	93
Experienced similar fear as clients	94
Physical Effects	96
Personal Growth	97
Self esteem/finds meaning	97
Renewed appreciation for life	99
Learning about herself	99
Learning new skills and ways of coping	101

Analysis of the effects of counselling on Sandy	102
What helps Sandy to cope	102
Idiosyncratic strategy	103
Talking	103
Life experience	104
Appreciation from clients	105
Achieving a balance between detachment and involvement	105
Organisational support	107
Balance: Distinction between counselling role and full-time job	108
Expected responses from clients	109
Boundaries of lay counselling role	109
Flexibility	111
Network of family and friends	112
What could hamper her coping	112
Desire to help versus inability to let go	113
Impatience	114
Language barrier	116
Researcher's perception of Sandy's functioning	116
Summary and Conclusion	118

7 DOMINIQUE'S STORY

Personal data	121
Introduction	121
The Background	122
Researcher's initial impressions of Dominique	122

How Dominique became involved in counselling and her impressions of the training course	123
Effects of counselling	124
Emotional distress	124
Feelings of helplessness and incompetence	126
Questioned her counselling effectiveness	128
Pessimistic view of the world	129
Physical effects	131
Analysis of effects of counselling on Dominique	132
What could have hampered Dominique's ability to cope	133
Lack of supportive systems	133
Over-exposure to trauma	134
Insufficient training	135
Suitability for counselling	136
Disengagement and involvement	138
Inability to deal with uncertainty	139
Researcher's perception of Dominique's functioning	140
Summary and Conclusion	141

8 NOMSA'S STORY

Personal data	143
Introduction	143
The background	144
Researcher's initial impressions of Nomsa	144
How Nomsa became involved in counselling and her impression of the training course	144

Effects of counselling	146
Questioning her counselling effectiveness	146
Physical effects	147
Experiencing similar pain as client	147
Personal growth	148
Seeing the positive in others and self-esteem	151
Analysis of effects of counselling on Nomsa	152
What helps Nomsa to cope	152
Talking	153
Humour	154
Learning and meaning	154
Boundaries of lay counselling role	155
Detachment vs. involvement	156
Positive attitude	158
Job experience	160
Life experience	162
Strong identity/culture	162
What could hamper Nomsa's coping	163
Over-exposure	163
Impatience	163
Researcher's perspective of Nomsa's functioning	164
Summary and Conclusion	165
9	COMPARATIVE ANALYSIS
Introduction	167

Effects of counselling	167
Maintaining a questioning attitude	167
Physical Effects	169
Emotional distress	170
Positive effects	172
What helps them to cope	173
Personal style	173
Life experience	176
Training	177
Support systems: organisational and personal	178
What could hamper their coping	180
Personal style	180
Organisational support and training	183
Conclusion	184

10 CONCLUSION

Introduction	185
Evaluation of the study	185
Strengths of the study	186
Limitations of the study	191
Recommendations for future research	194
Conclusion	195

BIBLIOGRAPHY	196
---------------------------	-----

APPENDIX A (literal transcription: Sandy – interview 1)	209
APPENDIX B (literal transcription: Sandy – interview 2)	221
APPENDIX C (literal transcription: Dominique)	232
APPENDIX D (literal transcription: Nomsa)	240