CONTENTS

ABSTRACT

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

CHAPTER 1

WEAVING WREATHS OF HONOUR THROUGH RESTORATIVE WITNESSING PRACTICES

1.1. Introduction

1.1.1 The reporter of research

1.1.2 Starting off

1.1.3 Diverging

1.2. Background and general description

1.2.1 Context of the two communities

1.2.1.1 The Primary School in Steenberg

1.2.1.2 Umnqophiso Pre-Primary School, Lwandle

1.2.2 Religious influences

1.2.2.1 Steenberg

1.2.2.2 Lwandle, Somerset West

1.2.3 Vulnerable women

1.2.4 Parents in the school bring transformation

1.3 The need for and significance of the study

1.3.1 Binding women for restorative witnessing

1.3.2 Working alongside and restorative witnessing

1.4 Research concern

1.4.1 Lourier Primary

1.4.2 Umqophiso Pre-Primary school

1.5 Purpose of the study

1.6 Research question

1.7 Theoretical/conceptual framework of the study

1.7.1 Research paradigm: qualitative action research

1.7.1.1 Action research as emancipatory action

1.7.1.2 Action research to improve practice

1.7.1.3 Action research is contextual

1.7.1.4 Action research includes researcher as researched

1.7.1.5 Action research demands reflexivity

1.7.1.6 Action research informs
CHAPTER 2
THE SOCIAL CONSTRUCTION OF RESTORATIVE WITNESSING

2.1 Introduction

2.2 Postmodernism
   2.2.1 Social construction and language
   2.2.2 Discoursed Lives
      2.2.2.1 Michel Foucault deconstructing the ‘truths’ we live by
      2.2.2.2 Derrida deconstructing to show contradictions
      2.2.2.3 Feminists deconstructing for liberation

2.3 Taking up the challenge

2.4 De-constructing, re-constructing and co-constructing
   2.4.1 Witnessing
      2.4.1.1 Independent witnessing
      2.4.1.2 Restorative witnessing as inter-dependent witnessing
      2.4.1.3 Laying out the strands that weave restorative witnessing practices
         2.4.1.3.1 Restorative witnessing assumes accountability
         2.4.1.3.2 Restorative witnessing deconstructs power
         2.4.1.3.3 Restorative witnessing embodies persons
         2.4.1.3.4 Restorative witnessing as an act of resistance
         2.4.1.3.5 Restorative witnessing invites listening relationship and friendship
         2.4.1.3.6 Restorative witnessing creates an audience for validation
         2.4.1.3.7 Restorative witnessing finds ways to record events
         2.4.1.3.8 Restorative witnessing re-visions God/ Spirituality
         2.4.1.3.9 Restorative witnessing emphasises ‘taking-it-back-practices’
         2.4.1.3.10 Restorative witnessing invites agency and co-constructing of knowledge
CHAPTER 3
WREATHING COMMUNITY THROUGH CONVERSATION

3.1 Introduction
3.2 Checking for value
3.3 On meeting mothers
3.4 Wonderful women
  3.4.1 Community weaver - Mrs Summers, Aunty Jane
  3.4.2 Doctorate in care - Salomé Adonis
  3.4.3 Child protector - Shirley Brickles
  3.4.4 ‘Doing community’ - Galiema Solomons
  3.4.5 Still standing - Wendy Matthews
3.5 Looking at practices in support of restorative witnessing
  3.5.1 Listening
  3.5.2 Asking questions
  3.5.3 Writing letters
  3.5.4 Asking for feedback
  3.5.5 Keeping in touch
3.6 Steps toward creating new communities of care
3.7 In conclusion: Connecting with wreaths of honour

CHAPTER 4
FROM BITTERNESS COMES THE SWEETNESS

4.1 Introduction
4.2 Looking out for ways to get the better of despondency
4.3 A voice was heard in Lwandle
4.4 Learning from another white woman at the school
4.5 Getting connected
4.6 ‘Doing with’ equals care and work-in-community
4.7 Rubbish from riches
4.8 Playing together
4.9 Conversation
  4.9.1 Amazing mothers
4.9.2 Absent fathers 100
4.9.3 Absent mothers 100
4.9.4 Disapproval of independent women 101
4.9.5 Poverty 102
4.9.6 Health issues 102
4.9.7 Access to education 103
4.9.8 Commune-ity and community building 103
4.10 Storytelling 104
4.11 Clarity about commitment 105
4.12 Connections in a car or eating together 106
4.13 In Conclusion: Building a nation and healing the wounds 109

CHAPTER 5
RESTORATIVE WITNESSING: HOPE IN ACTION

5.1 Introduction 111
5.2 Looking again at the beginning 111
5.3 Re-viewing groups 112
5.4 Reflecting on the words: ‘participatory’, ‘action’ and ‘research’ 114
  5.4.1 How ‘participatory’ has the research been? 114
  5.4.2 What ‘action’ did it bring about? 118
    5.4.2.1 Availability 120
    5.4.2.2 Privileging participants’ lives and stories 120
    5.4.2.3 Taking women’s stories seriously 120
    5.4.2.4 Learning from the participants 120
    5.4.2.5 Doing what was needed 121
    5.4.2.6 Challenging injustice and oppressive ideas 121
    5.4.2.6 Celebrating 121
    5.4.2.6 Avoiding assumptions 121
  5.4.3 What ‘research’ brought the participants as co-researchers? 122
    5.4.3.1 Research as political action 122
    5.4.3.2 Research as a conversation 123
    5.4.3.3 Research as ‘doing ethics’ 124
    5.4.3.4 Research in reflexivity 125
5.5 A conversation with other researchers 126
  5.5.1 Beyond the possible 126
  5.5.2 Engaging hope 128