Dear J.K.

I have just arrived last week from the Republic to find your letter of 29th June last. I left during the week in which your letter was written hence the delay.

I am afraid I haven't been able to make any progress with regards an office for us. Personally I will not be able to ~~and~~ take up and maintain an office until I have some thing concrete e.g. insurance agency.

My difficulties in the matter of getting the office ~~we~~ require for your practice are still the same as you know. - high rent scarcity of suitable premises etc. But I continue to make inquiries. I have not raised your proposition of sharing offices with Mr Browden (the Accountant) yet. I'll see him.

About cases, Prof. there is a practical problem resulting from distance which can only be solved when you ~~for~~ finally come over. I find it difficult to accumulate matters in such a way as to make it worth the while your coming up this end for them. From the looks of things the sooner you come over the better. I met the big boys and they say they are keeping fit and abreast with time, you see.

I met R. in Seneca when he passed through. Hot, prof, hot as ever, if not worse.
Well, I don't know. We will see.

I look forward to your joining us this end as soon after you have fixed up your affairs that end
as possible.
