About Us

Filmmakers Library has been distributing documentary films for almost 40 years, starting with a landmark, cinema verite documentary called Birth and Death. The collections grew from life cycle films to a constantly widening perspective of issue oriented documentaries. Gathering films from American independents as well as filmmakers from all over the world, we are proud to make available these insightful documentaries. And now, as an imprint of Alexander Street Press, we look forward to making our films available in ways that were not possible before.

Discover a Past Jubilee

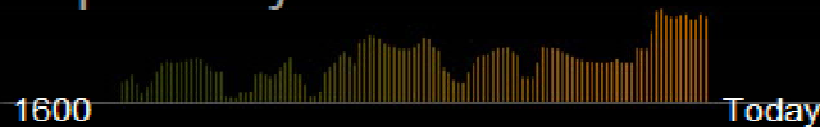

"The crown embodied in a single glittering image"

Ten years ago, fourteen dresses from the Queen's Collection that had never been shown publicly before were displayed at the Museum of Costume in Bath as part of the Queen's Golden Jubilee celebrations – a fascinating and rare insight into the working wardrobe of a monarch.

Fan leaf description

The Old Testament relates the account of the Israelites worshipping a golden calf. While Moses was receiving the Ten Commandments from God, his elder brother, Aaron, responding to a request from the Israelites for an idol, gave the people a golden calf to worship. When Moses discovered their idolatry he was so incensed that he threw down and shattered the stone tablets bearing the commandments. He then burned the golden calf, ground it to a powder and forced the Israelites to drink it, as atonement for worshipping a false idol. This depiction of the Golden Calf is after Nicolas Poussin's The Adoration of the Golden Calf, circa 1634, (oil on canvas), which now hangs in the National Gallery in London. The compositions are identical, but the fan-painter's treatment of this subject has none of the weight, the classicised stoicism, and the theatrical shading of Poussin's celebrated work. The diaphanous quality of the
