Dear Friend

As one of the Correspondents for the Program of Advanced Religious Studies upon whom we rely so heavily for the success of the Program, you will be interested, I believe, to glance at this brochure. It contains a brief interpretation of the Program, data on the present Ecumenical Fellows, and short summaries of the addresses given on the occasion of the formal inauguration of the Program last autumn.

You will be gratified to know that the Ecumenical Fellows for next year who have just been selected promise to prove an even abler and more mature group than those of the current initial year. We are encouraged by this indication that the Program is being looked to with increasing expectation of its contribution to the future leadership of churches throughout the world.

Let me seize this opportunity to reiterate our profound gratitude to you for your interest and help.

Faithfully yours
