

A long, slender wooden object, possibly a ceremonial staff or a decorative handle, is shown against a dark green, textured fabric background. The object is intricately carved with various geometric and organic patterns. It features a central longitudinal slot and a series of circular holes along its length. The carvings include repeating geometric motifs such as triangles and zig-zags, as well as stylized floral or scrollwork designs. The wood has a warm, reddish-brown hue and a polished finish.

UNI/M/ 232 (HS)

