

Acronyms

ATE	Attitudes towards English
CO-ED	Co-educational
GCE ‘O’ Level	General certificate of education ordinary level
GCE ‘A’ Level	General certificate of education advanced level
HMI	Her Majesty’s Inspectorate
HOY	Head of Year
I.Q.	Intelligence quotient
SAAE	Self-concept of academic ability in English
SES	Socio-economic status
SPT	Student perceptions of their teachers

List of figures

Chapter 1

- 1. The way in which the variables interrelate 5

Chapter 2

- 1. Dimensions of attitude 28

- 2. Derivation of the English language 34

- 3. Zimbabwe: structure of the formal education system 44

Chapter 3

- 1. The phenomenal field 63

- 2. The hierarchical nature of the self-concept 70

- 3. Specific hierarchically bound notions of the self-concept 71

- 4. A model for classroom learning 88

Chapter 5

- 1. An academic enhancement roadmap 182

- 2. Assessment grid 191

- 3. Skills and confidence level grid 194

List of tables

Chapter 4

1. Distribution of students in terms of home language	94
2. Distribution of students in terms of gender	94
3. Distribution of students in terms of school type	95
4. Variables measured and measuring instruments	100
5. Distribution of items measuring the various variables in the questionnaire	101
6. Item analysis for attitude towards English	113
7. Item analysis for self-concept of academic ability in English (SAAE)	114
8. Item analysis for student perceptions of their teachers of English (SPT)	115
9. Limits and areas of stanines	116
10. Transformation of raw scores into stanines section 1: attitudes towards English	117
11. Transformation of raw scores into stanines section 2: self-concepts of academic ability in English	118
12. Transformation of raw scores into stanines: section 3 perceptions of teachers of English	119
13. Summarizing the norms	120
14. Reliability of the measuring instrument	121
15. Inter-correlation matrix for the three affective factors	122
16. Attitudes towards English of male and female students	124
17. Self-concept of academic ability in English of male and female students	125
18. Perceptions of their teachers of English of male and female students	126

19. The attitudes towards English of students with different home languages	127
20. The self-concepts of academic ability of students with different home languages	129
21. Student perceptions of their teachers of English who have different home languages	130
22. Bonferroni test analysis of language differences; student perceptions of their teachers of English	131
23. Attitude towards English and the area of domicile	133
24. Self-concept of academic ability in English and area of domicile	134
25. Student perceptions of their teachers of English and area of domicile	135
26. Student attitudes towards English and school type	137
27. Bonferroni test analysis of student attitudes towards English and school type	138
28. Student self-concept of academic ability and school type	140
29. Student perceptions of their teachers of English and school type	141
30. Bonferroni test analysis of student perceptions of their teachers of English and school type	142
31. Students attitudes towards English and levels of fathers' education	145
32. Student self-concept of academic ability and levels of fathers' education	146
33. Student perceptions of their teachers of English and levels of fathers' education	147
34. Student attitudes towards English and levels of mothers' education	149
35. Student self-concept of academic ability and levels of mothers' education	150
36 Student perceptions of their teachers of English and levels of mothers' education	151
37 Students' attitudes towards English and the age when the learning of English began	152

38. Student self-concept of academic ability in English and the age when the learning of English began	153
39. Group comparisons of the mean self-concepts of academic ability in English in terms of different age levels when the learning of English Began	154
40. Student perceptions of their teachers of English and the age level when English was first acquired	155
41. The correlations between students' attitudes towards English (ATE), self-concepts of academic ability in English (SAAE), perceptions of their teachers of English (SPT) and academic achievement	156
42. Step-wise multiple regression analysis with independent variable achievement in English	158
 Chapter 5
43. Assessment grid	191
44. Skills and confidence level grid	194

